A Conflict Check is available in Osprey to ensure that you do not add a client who is already present on the system, or another side in the relevant case.

Conflict of interest searches should be carried out whenever you add a new matter in order to ensure that the other side is not already listed as a client on your system.

Client Search

To search for duplicate Client details, ensure that the radio button is highlighted as below

- ☒ Client
- ☐ Dossier
- ☐ Client & Dossier

Then select the Next button.

Enter the details you wish to check for. Please note that you will need to select the toggle switch 'Include Archives' to search archived files.

A supervisor level user will be able to edit a system switch, to allow archived files to be included in the conflict search by default, rather than the user having to toggle the switch.

Client & Dossier Search

You are also able to run a combined Client and Dossier Search, which will first ask for client details to search by, then will go through the dossier search directly afterwards. This option can be used to find a specific client and other side combination.

Remember, the conflict searches DO NOT search archived matters by default, so you must select them if you wish to include them in your search results.
