Workflows are a combination of customisable actions within Osprey that can be performed from one area.

You can run documents, send emails, add key dates and much more. Thereby increasing productivity and saving time.

In each workflow you may have multiple tasks, which can be run independently of each other and within each task you can have multiple actions.

You may also use sections when setting up a workflow - these are made up from the tasks you can create.

Creating a Workflow

Select Supervisor > Case Management Setup > Workflows > Create Workflow

Enter a description and select a worktype. If you wish to have the workflow available across all worktypes, select Global.

If Run Sequentially is ticked, the workflow can only be run in the order in which the tasks have been setup.

Customise at Matter Level will allow users to delete tasks from the workflow if they are not required.

Please note that if any tasks are deleted this way, the workflow will be duplicated as new workflows to account for the new variation.

Click Save to create the new workflow.

To edit details, right click on it and select Edit. If a workflow is no longer required, you can select the Archive button to remove it from selection.

Workflows Tasks

Tasks need to be created to link to the workflow, please refer to the dedicated guide <https://support.ospreyapproach.com/guides/create-and-edit-workflow-tasks/>
