You can create signatures on Osprey that are included on emails sent from Osprey.

There are multiple ways email signatures being created:

- System Signature
- Branch Signature
- Individual User Signatures

Any of these can be set as default. In addition, variations can be made for individual users over and above the defaults so the whole firm could be set to use branch signatures, but a number of individual users could have options to select their own signatures at the time of emailing.

System Signature

The System Signature is set at the bottom of the System Settings screen from the Supervisor menu. In System Setup, you also set the defaults for signature behaviour, which will allow you to use System Signature, use Branch Signature or allow the user to select the signature.

User Signature

User Signatures give the power to the user to be able to create their own signatures. The User Signature can be set from System Setup > Users and Edit the relevant user to enable them to select the signature.

Email signature behaviour:

- ☐ Inherit from system
☐ Use branch signature
☒ Allow user to select the signature

The user can then set up their own signature from within the Send Email screen in Case Management.

The signature can then be managed from the resulting screen.
